Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have cured ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for best as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j27d.

Capturing Wild Horses.

A large mob of wild horses is desecrated coming toward the riders over a distant rise. As they draw near and see themselves headed by mounted men, they wheel sharply on one side, and, with manes and tails streaming in the wind, and their flanks shining with moisture, they gallop off in another direction, but only to find enemies wherever they turn. At last, in desperation, they make straight for the widest gap they see in the circle. The two men between whom they hope to escape leap off their back horses, which they quickly hobble and leave loose, and, mounting barebacked on the spare one, wait for the right moment for closing in on the flying and already distressed baguales as they make their final rush. If they do so too soon, of course the mob swerves to one side, and passes behind the hunter; but, if they manage well, the two simultaneously close in on the drove, boleadoras in hand, ready to cast; and at the moment the horses pass each singles out a good looking colt, whirling the balls round his head, and, letting fly, entangle them round both hind legs so effectually that the victim, after struggling onward some fifty yards, is obliged to submit, and falls heavily over. After the first cast the hunter presses on close to the heels of the escaping mob, and, loosening his second pair from round his waist, often secures another colt. Then he dismounts, and, after tying the prostrate animal's fore hoofs close together with some of the many rawhide thongs about his person or his horse, he leaves it, struggling but secure, and resumes his place in the circle as before, in case there is more game still within it. And here let me give a brief description of the boleadoras, for it is these that are chiefly used—and not the lasso, as is commonly supposed—for catching the wild horses of the Pampa. Three double-twisted thongs of raw horse-hide, each about three feet six inches long, are softened by rubbing and working them in the hands, and when in a pliant state, are tied together at one end. At the other end of one is fastened a stone ball, covered with hide, and shaped so as to fit the grasp of the hands; and to the other two ends are bound wooden balls (of the size of a small croquet one), also cased in hide. Grasping firmly the stone one, the hunter whirls the others around his head, and, when the right moment has arrived, he lets go (as a boy does half his sling), and the three balls twist the thongs around whatever they are thrown at. But to resume. After all the baguales inclosed have escaped or been caught, we look after the ostriches, which have, as a rule, remained, hiding themselves about the middle of the circle. Any who may have singly tried to run off previously have been allowed to do so; but if a troop should have made a rush (during the horse hunt), three or four of the men pursue and generally bag one apiece. Many others will drop into the low grass, hoping not to be seen, but the corredores are too keen-sighted and experienced, and, galloping up and down, they beat the ground like spaniels, shouting and whistling, until the birds are flushed, one by one, and have to run for it. On these expeditions any deer and guanacos (a species of llama) are not hunted; only so when neither baguales nor ostriches have been inclosed.—London Field.

HERR KARL GEHMIA, of Berne, after a series of experiments extending over several years, has succeeded in producing artificial mother-of-pearl undistinguishable in every respect from the natural article. It can be molded in any shape, produced in any color, is impervious to heat and cold, and its price will be much less than that of ordinary mother-of-pearl.

A Bolt From a Clear Sky.

The Hawaiian earthquake of 1837 is described for the first time by an eye witness, in Missionary Coan's new book. On the 7th of November, 1837, at the evening prayers, we were startled by a heavy thud and a sudden jar of the earth. The sound was like the fall of some vast body upon the beach, and in a few seconds the noise of mingled voices rising for a mile along the shore thrilled us like the wail of doom. Instantly this was followed by a like wail from all the native houses around us. I immediately ran down to the sea, where a scene of wild ruin was spread out before me; the sea, moved by an unseen hand, had, all on a sudden, risen in a gigantic wave, and this wave, rushing in with the speed of a racehorse, had fallen upon the shore, sweeping everything not more than fifteen or twenty feet above high-water into indiscriminate ruin. Houses, furniture, fuel, timber, canoes, food, clothing, everything floated wildly upon the flood. About two hundred people, from the old man and woman of three score years and ten to the new-born infant, stripped of their earthly all, were struggling in the tumultuous waves.

So sudden and unexpected was the catastrophe that the people along the shore were literally "eating and drinking," and they "knew not until the flood came and swept them all away." The harbor was full of strugglers calling for help, while frantic parents and children, wives and husbands ran to and fro along the beach seeking for their lost ones. As wave after wave came in and retired the strugglers were brought near the shore, where the more vigorous landed with desperate efforts and the weaker and exhausted were carried back upon the retreating wave, some to sink and rise no more till the noise of judgment wakes them.

The Romance of a Street Car.

Ten years ago, one oppressive summer night, a gentleman, who was then and is now a dealer in teas and spices in New York, was a guest at the Troy House. He asked the clerk if there were any amusements that evening, and, receiving a negative answer, inquired where he could find a cool spot to spend an hour or two. The clerk advised a ride on the street cars to Albia and back. The gentleman boarded a car. Next to him sat a young lady, the daughter of a poor, but respected Englishman, then a resident of Albia. The young lady was not very young, neither very handsome, but was attractive and bright. Her occupation was school teaching. A remark by the gentleman led to an informal conversation, which became so interesting that when the young lady's residence at Albia was reached she was not aware of it until the conductor called her attention to the fact. After she had gone the gentleman asked the conductor who the lady was. The conductor, who had supposed the two were old friends, gave the young woman's name. Said the gentleman: "I would like to meet her again. I am a widower with two children and live in New York. I have never met a lady in my life who looked, talked, and acted so much like my wife as the young woman I accidentally met on your car." The conductor, taking an interest in the romantic case, answered the varied questions of the widower, and finally agreed to take his card to her and ask for an interview at her home. On the following evening an introduction took place, which was followed six months later by a marriage, investigation of the gentleman's statements concerning his standing having verified them in detail. The former widower now has five children and a happy home in all respects.—Troy Times.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce JAMES P. HARBESON, of Fleming county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democracy in convention assembled.

We are authorized to announce Col. J. SMITH HURT, of Bath County, as a candidate for Congress in the 9th Congressional District at the next November election. Subject to the action of the democratic party.

The Shakers have had a dozen recruits from Paris, in the last three months.

There has been a continued decline in the grain market at Chicago this week.

ROBERT E. PATTISON, of Philadelphia, has accepted the Democratic nomination for the Governorship of Pennsylvania.

The last session of the Legislature passed ninety-three laws prohibiting the sale of ardent liquors in different localities in the state.

The Ohio State Fish Commissioner has deposited one thousand eels in the Ohio river at Portsmouth and the same number in the Scioto river at Piketon.

The Utica, (N. Y.) Observer sums up the case as follows: If there is any one conclusion upon which the American people may be said to be agreed, it is that Secor Robeson is a thief.

REPORTS from the various tobacco growing districts represent the acreage as being about the same as last year. Conditions are favorable for Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, but under the average in the Connecticut Valley, Maryland and Virginia.

The Senate on Monday defeated the tobacco tax reduction to 8 cents and added to the tax bill on amendment providing for a rebate upon unbroken packages. In the House Hon. Proctor Knott presented the minority report on the Northern Pacific land grant, to which objection was made, and it was not received. The rest of the day was spent in the the conference report on the legislative bill, to which the House finally agreed.

It is, at this juncture, impossible to determine accurately concerning the disposition which Congress will make of the tobacco tax. In its present aspect it bears the ambiguous relation of "now you see it and now you don't see it." The weather is pleasant, and the occasion for the adjournment of Congress, when the country is anxiously awaiting some definite action upon internal revenue taxes, is not a warrantable contingency.

Forward.

The cause of Fitzgerald is now the foremost and controlling issue in this canvas. The politician who does not realize this fact will certainly be "left." The record to be made this August will test the quality of a man's democracy in the contests of the future. The withdrawal of honest Jim Hendrixson in the very crisis of the fight has carried demoralization and dismay into the very heart of the enemy's camp. Mongrelism is at a ruinous discount and the howl of the Half-Breed is heard in the saloon. When the old Democracy comes to the front, the Sore-Head slinks to the rear. There is no room in any party for the man that betrays it. Forward is the cry.

The Strong Democracy.

Calm reflection generally brings sensible conclusions. It was the cleverest politician that ever figured in American politics who expressed his abiding faith in the "sober, second thought" of the people whom he served. Now if there exists upon the face of the earth a political organization which is free from the vices, the weaknesses, the passions of a corrupt and fanatical democracy, it is the democratic party of Mason county. You may always appeal with perfect safety to the good sense, the generous feeling, the political and personal honor of a thoroughbred Mason county democrat; and it is precisely this characteristic sense of justice and this habit of political tolerance which have given to the democracy as an organization so powerful a hold upon the popular heart. When a worthy man becomes an object of personal, political, or religious persecution, that moment, he may count upon the democracy as his friend.

FROM every precinct in the county there come cheering assurances of victory for the principles of tolerance and good sense. No party can survive, nor deserves to exist, which casts these principles to the wind. The rights and honor of every race and sect rest upon the exact and constant maintenance of these indispensable conditions of free government. Political ambition is peculiar to no religious organization. It is a passion that may sway the counsels of the purest Protestant sect. It is a charge which may be easily made against any religious denomination that exists. Let us beware how we let slip the dogs of sectarian war. In this day of christian enlightenment to make war upon a man because of his race or faith is an act of baseness from which every just and honorable nature must instinctively shrink.

THE election takes place on Monday, the 7th day of August. If you are in favor of the common school system of the state being being preserved and advanced, you will vote for the 2 cents additional school tax, while you are voting for the democratic ticket. There is one fact connected with this tax with which every voter should be made acquainted. Whether this tax is voted or not, the colored children of this state, under the decision of the United States Court, will be entitled to their equal per capita of whatever school money is in the treasury. If, therefore, the 2 cent tax is rejected, the per capita to all the school children in the state, both black and white, will be reduced to $1.10, which will pay but for very brief sessions for the next two years.

Noted Sunday school workers representing all denominations will be present on the first day and deliver speeches. A full synopsis of these will be given. All who desire to sell anything will find in the BULLETIN an excellent advertising medium as the paper will be sold daily on the grounds. Here is a good opportunity for teachers to make known the merits of their schools. A large extra edition will be printed. It is a well-known fact that thousands attend these meetings. The conference of the M. E. Church, South, will follow soon at Carlisle. Let all the agents for the BULLETIN at once redouble their efforts for they can well serve their neighbors in furnishing them a good paper at so small a cost.

Twenty-five dollars and ten days in Castle Gault was the wind up of the affair.

MURDER

Richard Lane, Marshal of Augusta, Shot and Instantly Killed by Ivan Bowman.

Special to the DAILY BULLETIN.

AUGUSTA, Ky., July 26, 1882.—Last night about nine o'clock, Richard Lane, Marshal of this city, was shot while sitting in a chair in front of the Taylor House, by Ivan Bowman, and instantly killed. Lane was sitting in the chair, as stated, and was half asleep when Bowman came down the street armed with a double-barrel shot gun, and when nearly opposite Lane, he exclaimed "lookout!" and fired the contents of one barrel into his body striking him just above the heart. He ran for about thirty feet and fell dead.

There is no reason at present known for this murder, other than that Lane had beaten Bowman in the race for city Marshal at the last election. Bowman has lately been drinking very hard.

After the shooting Bowman escaped and concealed himself in a cornfield within the city limits, belonging to his brother, where he was captured and subsequently lodged in the Brooksville jail.

The deceased was a brother of Mr. Isaac Lane, of your city, and leaves a wife and several children. He was a member of Confidence Lodge, No. 46, I. O. O. F., of this place. Bowman was married also, and has a wife and two children.

The feeling against Bowman in this community is very bitter, and there are some apprehensions that violence may be done him.

The following notice has been posted at the door of the Odd Fellow's Hall in this city:

To the officers and members of DeKalb Lodge No. 12, and Ringgold Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F.: The funeral of brother R. D. Lane, of Confidence Lodge, No. 46, I. O. O. F., of Augusta, will take place at ten o'clock Thursday morning at Augusta. The steamer Clipper will leave Maysville at seven o'clock a. m. All members wishing to go will meet at Odd Fellows' Hall at eight o'clock to-night, when arrangements will be made.

The Bourbon News says:

Judge Charlie Lytle arrived home Sunday night, from Ft. Benton, Montana, and found his wife yet alive. He had to wait at Ft. Benton three days after receiving a telegram to come, in order to catch a boat, and even after the boat arrived at Ft. Benton, had to pay $25 out of his own pocket to get the boat unloaded and started a day earlier. The judge was quite ill and almost overcome with grief and anxiety during eleven days of terrible suspense. Mrs. Lytle died Monday morning.

DOWN GO THE PRICES.

Clothing for a Song and You Can Sing It Yourself.

The sensation in business circles this week in Maysville is the determination of Messrs. Vicroy & Lee, the popular clothiers, to sell out in the next thirty days their entire stock of fashionable ready-made clothing not at cost, but at prices considerably under what was paid for the stock. They are determined to close out their present supply to make room for their fall purchases at any sacrifice. They therefore invite everybody in need of clothing to call and be convinced that one dollar at their establishment will go farther than two at any other house in the city. Read the advertisement.

Letter From Nebraska.

FALLS CITY, NEB., July 21, 1881.

Editor Bulletin: Thinking perhaps a little news from Nebraska would be accepted from one of our boys, I will endeavor to give you a little. You see we live in Nebraska, that way off place where people live in dugouts, wear leather breeches with turkey feathers up the side, ride little ponies and herd cattle. That is what a great many think. But it is no such thing. We are not out of civilization, neither do we wear buckskin pants, nor herd cattle for a living.

The people of Nebraska, wear good clothes, have something good to eat and live in very respectable houses. A few weeks ago, one could drive out four or five miles and look for hours and never grow weary. On every hand you could see large fields of wheat, fields of from one to two hundred acres, just ready for the reapers. Not only wheat, but oats, corn and rye. These fields would lie on a nice rolling prairie intermingled with nice farm houses, with their nice shade trees, and large fields covered with nice fat cattle and hogs. It is one of the prettiest sights any one ever saw. I say a few weeks ago, for now it is all cut and ready for the thrasher. Although it is a pretty sight yet, as the country is just elegant, one can never tire of looking at it.

Last summer we had a very warm one. This, is just right, rain enough, heat enough, and cool enough. Crops are all good this season. The little town of Falls city, is still booming, growing all the time. New buildings are going up, farms being divided and sold to accommodate that class of people who are every day coming in to locate.

The M. P. R. R., coming through our town has made quite a change and it is doing a big business. Why? Because it is well equipped, good officers, good road and always on time.

It runs four trains daily, (passenger trains) two East and two West.

Mr. J. H. Humlong and family lately of your town are with us, and is better pleased every day. He saw something he never saw before by coming to Nebraska. I will explain, on the fourth, we had a grand celebration, speaking, horse racing, bicycle racing and a foot racing, glass-ball shooting and other minor sports. But this he has often seen. But what he never saw, was an Indian war dance. That being one of the features of the day, he took it all in. He crowded up close and stood with eyes wide open, one hand on his pocket book and the other on his head, looking and expecting every moment to be attacked.

Well he might view the dance, I can't explain it, for it is the most hideous, blood curdling affair any one ever witnessed. There were about forty Indians on the ground and twelve or fifteen taking part in the dance.

He felt relieved when they were through and found himself all safe. I think if there had been any chance of his getting out of the crowd, he would have struck a two-foot gait for home.

Father and mother are in Colorado, enjoying the sights, and having a good time. But although everything is grand there, they say there is no place like home in old Nebraska. GEO. H. NEAL.

Frank E. Bronson, an Oberlin druggist, has brought suit against the Rev. James Brand, pastor of the First Congregational Church of that town, for $30,000 for libel, growing out of the temperance crusade in that town last spring.

Suit was begun in Cleveland Monday by William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) and other heirs of Philip Cody, to recover a sixteenth interest in over $300,000, worth of real estate in the sixteenth and seventeenth wards of that city.

A detachment of about six hundred British forces advanced upon the intrenchments of Arabi Pasha. The object of the expedition seems to have been to drive from Ramleh the scouting native cavalry who had infested the place, and taken possession of the pumps. Arabi's men concentrated when they saw the advance, and placed ten guns in position in front of Mareot and between that and Aboukir. Sixty Egyptian prisoners were taken after a hard fight, and the occupying forces are now entrenched at Ramleh. In the commons Monday evening, the Marquis of Hartington gave notice out that he will move, her majesty having been advised to direct that a military expedition from India be dispatched to Egypt. DeLassap has telegraphed that Arabi Pasha has declared his intention to respect the neutrality of the Suez Canal.

USEFUL HINTS.

RED WASH FOR BRICKS.—To remove the green that gathers on bricks pour over them boiling water in which any vegetables not greasy have been boiled. Repeat for a few days, and green will disappear. For the red wash melt one ounce of glue in one gallon water; while hot add alum size of egg, one-half pound Venetian red, one pound Spanish brown. Try it; if too light, add more red and brown. If too dark, water it.

TO PAINT AN OLD HOUSE.—Take three gallons water and one pint flaxseed; boil half an hour; take it off and add water enough to make four gallons; let it stand to settle; pour off the water in a pail, and put in enough of Spanish white to make it as thick as whitewash; then add one-half pint linseed oil; stir it well and apply with a brush. If the whitening does not mix readily add more water. Flaxseed, having the nature of oil, is better than glue, and will not wash off as readily.

TO SOFTEN THE HANDS.—One can have the hands in soapsuds with soft soap without injury to the skin, if the hands are dipped in vinegar or lemon juice immediately after. The acids destroy the corrosive effects of the alkali, and make the hands soft and white. Indian meal and vinegar or lemon juice used on hands when roughened by cold or labor will heal and soften them. Rub the hands in this; then wash off thoroughly and rub in glycerine. Those who suffer from chapped hands will find this comforting.

STAINING WOOD.—Apple, pear, and walnut wood, if fine-grained, may be stained black by the following process. Boil in a glazed or enamelled iron vessel with water four ounces of ground galls, one ounce of logwood chips, and half an ounce each of green vitriol and crystals of verdigris. Filter while warm, and brush the wood over with this rapidly. Dry and brush over with strong cold solution of acetate of iron, and dry. Repeat this several times, and finally dry in an oven at a moderate temperature, and oil or varnish.

TO WASH WHITE LACE EDGING.—Have a quart bottle covered with linen, stitched smoothly to fit the shape. Begin at the bottom and wind the lace about it, basting fast at both edges, even the minutest point, to the linen. Wash on the bottle, soaping it well, rinse by plunging in a pail of clear water, and boil as you would a white handkerchief, bottle and all. Set in the hot sun to dry. When quite dry, clip the basting threads and use the lace without ironing. If neatly basted on, it will look nearly as well as new—if not quite.

WASHING MADE EASY.—I soak my clothes over night; in the morning I fill my washboiler half full of water, and place it on the stove to heat, throwing in a handful of soft soap, or about two ounces of hard; I then wring out the soaked clothes, soap the dirty parts, and by this time the water is hot; put them in and let them boil fifteen minutes, stirring often; I now take out and put them in cold water, wash out the suds; if any dirt remains, give it a few rubs and it is gone; I rinse them good in plenty of water, and my clothes are as white and clean as those that have gone through a long process of rubbing. I have washed my clothes this way for ten years, and they have never turned yellow.

A NUMBER of years ago a Baptist clergyman, named Clevinger, was one of the most popular men in two States. His house was built in such a manner that a large hall which ran through it was exactly on a straight line between Kentucky and Tennessee, and whenever a runaway couple came to him to be married, the obliging parson, on the first intimation of an approaching pursuit, would usher them across the hall into the State from which they had not come, and from which they could not be legally dragged by a relentless parent.

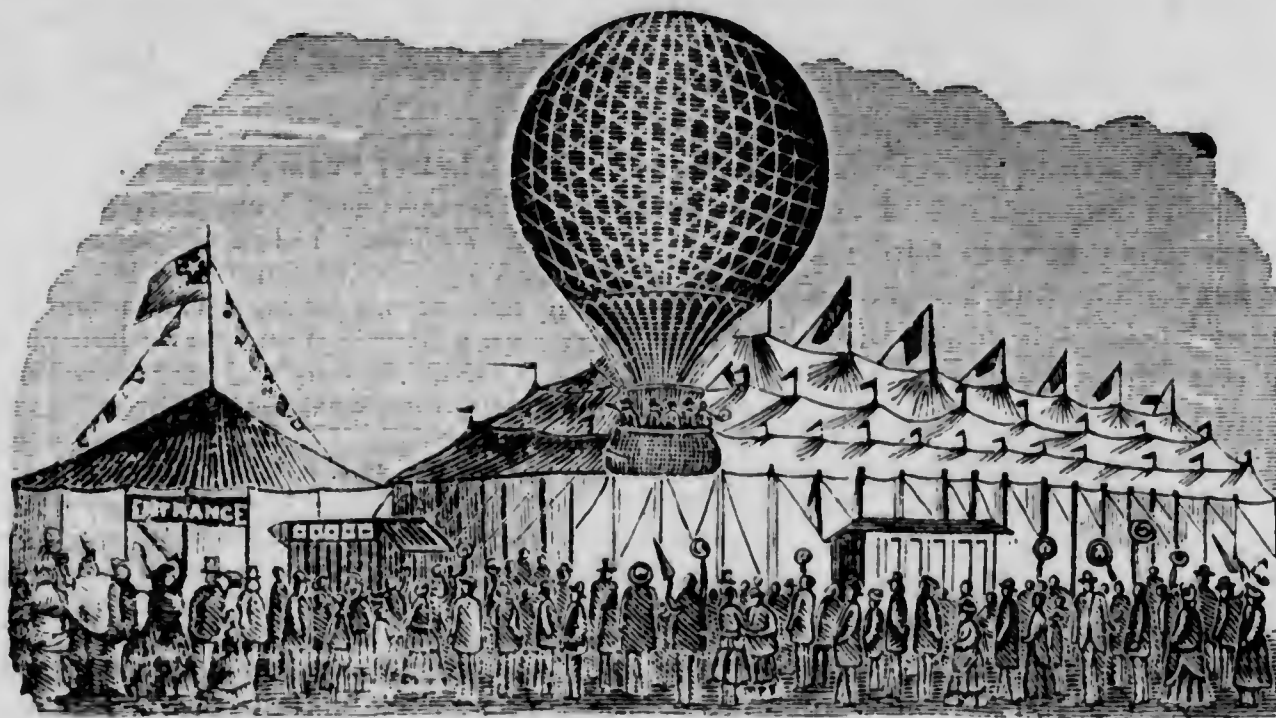

At the close of the war the people of the United States had to be taxed $4.20 per capita annually, to pay the interest on the public debt; now a tax of $1.56 a head is the annual burden.
